Terminal Taxicab Company, in Police Court today by Hack Inspector Dawson. At the instance of counsel continuances until April 28 were entered in each case. At that time a vigorous legal fight is omised against what taxicab chauffeurs regard as persecution by the author-The hack inspector and police stated to-have been consistently ignoring the hack regulations, and past warnings to comply with them have either been ignored or forgotten. They propose, if possible, to enforce the regulations.

The authorities complain there is carelessness in displaying license badges, rate cards and numbers on cab lamps. They also complain of loitering. These four charges were filed against Selin several days ago and again today in consequence of what has been observed about the D. A. R. Hall and the Union station. Pending the calling of the cases for trial the defendant is a liberty under heavy collateral. It was stated today that in addition to the defendant of this morning other taxicab drivers may be expected to face the same charges in a day or so.
